Introduction

The Context - What is Positive Ageing?

Positive Ageing refers to the creation of an age-friendly community by enhancing the quality of life for older people. This is achieved through the provision of opportunities for improving and preserving a person's health, their independence, their degree of personal responsibility and their participation and security in the community.

It recognises the vital roles ageing people play as workers, volunteers, carers, family members, life-long learners, neighbours and consumers. Positive Ageing is also about how we, as a community, value our older citizens.

We want all members of our Shire community, no matter what age to be able to see ageing not in terms of decline and degeneration but in terms of opportunity and capacity.

The vision described for Narrandera Shire in the Positive Ageing Strategy is comprised of a series of actions that the community and Narrandera Shire can take to create a community environment that supports people as they age to:

- be able to choose from a range of activities and interests
- be able to access venues, activities and services
- be independent and active
- be connected and engaged in the community
- be involved in decision making
- have a sense of wellbeing

"... in the end, it's not the years in your life that count. It's the life in your Years."

Abraham Lincoln

Why do we need to take action on Positive Ageing?

For the first time in history the birth rate does not exceed the death rate. Worldwide, the proportion of people aged 65 and over is growing faster than any other age group. As a community we are healthier and more active than any generation that has gone before us – so we are living longer. The trend holds true for Australian communities and for Narrandera Shire.

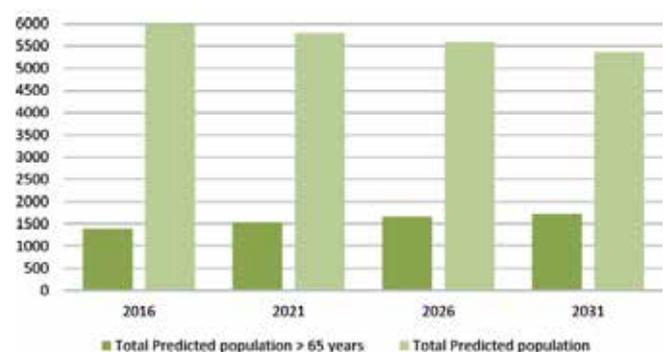

Narrandera Shire's population of people over 65 years as a percentage of total population is 19.8%; significantly higher than the State average of 14% percent.

At the 2016 Census it is predicted that people aged over 65 years will have increased from 19.8% of the population to 23.3%; and by the 2031 census one in every 3 people living in Narrandera will be over 65.

It is important to note that due to the lower life expectancy and higher rate of chronic illness, the Commonwealth and State Governments deem the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people to be frail aged at 50 years of age. In Narrandera Shire 1 in every 10 people are of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent.

The Commonwealth and state governments have been planning their responses to the demographic shift for some years now. Local governments across Australia are also now developing strategies to support their local residents as their community ages.

Predicted Demographic Shift in Narrandera Shire

Why a Strategy?

Sound planning is fundamental to the success of any organisation. This strategy:

- is informed by consultation with the community at gatherings, at listening posts, with service providers and via a survey questionnaire, as well as research into what is required so that the whole community is in a position to supports its older members.
- communicates what the community has asked for to support them to age well.
- identifies the steps the Shire and its communities might take to create an environment in which aged people may live positively.
- outlines links to important government initiatives supporting Positive Ageing.
- provides information Council and community groups can use to support any future funding applications related to Positive Ageing.

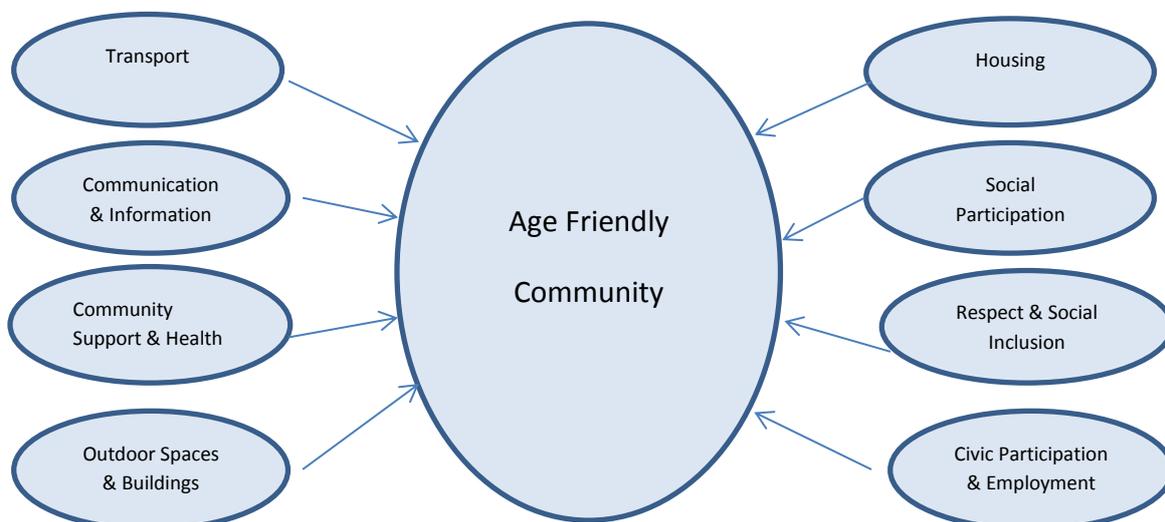

A strong Positive Ageing Strategy provides a guide to Council and the community to take a collaborative approach to deliver the best outcomes for the all of the community.

Community capacity building, and building strong and sustainable partnerships, is a key focus of the Positive Ageing Strategy and Council has a key role in facilitating action to respond to the changing age profile.

The purpose of this Strategy is to provide sustainable strategic direction for Council to meet the needs of its older residents through effective use of its own resources and by working in partnership with others.

The Positive Ageing Strategy identifies priority issues, addresses Council's role, and outlines actions both in the short and the medium term. The strategy will also be integrated into Council's Community Strategic Plan which informs the annual Delivery Plan, within which resources are identified, actions are given a time-frame, and through which delivery can be monitored.

What are the benefits of a Positive Ageing environment?

It is well established that community development has economic, cultural and social benefits to any community. A Narrandera Shire community with an actively supported, active and engaged older population may expect that the community will:

- retain and attract residents
- strengthen its volunteer base
- increase the participation in paid work
- attract investment
- minimise health care costs
- build social cohesion
- make it possible for more people to stay in own home as they age

It must be remembered that increasing longevity is an indicator of social and economic progress: a great triumph of civilisation and, specifically, of science and public policy over many of the causes of premature death which truncated lives in earlier times. Therefore, we should recognise that this unique phenomenon is one of the great achievements of the 20th century (Walker, 2012).

What is Narrandera Shire Council's role in Positive Ageing?

Only some of the issues identified by the community for this Strategy can be completed by Council alone. Many will require the support, resources, goodwill and assistance of community groups, the business community, individuals and other levels of government. Some will require actions that can only be implemented by Commonwealth or State Governments. Where this is the case Council can be a strong voice on the community's behalf.

An ageing population affects local government in a variety of ways including infrastructure, community assets, planning provisions, housing, transport and the promotion of a socially active, connected community.

How did we decide what to include in the Strategy?

The consultation asked participants to consider how Council could work with the community and other agencies to support them or family members as they age. Specifically residents were asked about active participation and engagement, transport and mobility, housing and aged care, and outdoor spaces and infrastructure.

Each of these focus areas covered a range of topics and issues:

Active Participation and Engagement

- Access to Aged Care and Health Services
- Cultural & recreational activity
- Continued Learning
- Information and Communication
- Safety
- Paid Employment

Transport and Mobility

Housing and Aged Care

- Support to stay in own home
- Range of Aged care accommodation & self-care units

Outdoor Spaces and Infrastructure

- Pathways
- Seating

The Consultation

A survey questionnaire was made available at locations throughout the Shire.

A number of community forums were provided in the Shire to capture the thoughts and ideas of our residents. These took the form of Positive Ageing Gatherings in Narrandera, Grong Grong and Barellan, with Listening Posts also held in Barellan and Narrandera. Wiradjuri elders were consulted via the Aunty Jeans project and elders and their families were also invited to a gathering and Elders were sent the survey questionnaire. Discussions were also held with Council's management staff.

Aged care and health care service providers were also interviewed one-to-one to establish any issues from a service provision, funding or strategic perspective.

The feedback received has provided Council with an awareness of issues that people may face as they get older in Narrandera Shire.

In developing the Positive Ageing Strategy these issues have been examined against opportunities that can be derived through the various ways in which Council can act. Opportunities can be pursued via leadership and advocacy, facilitation, management and information provision, and through connections and communication.

Our Findings

This is what you told us

Consultation across the Shire revealed some broad themes which are listed below. A detailed list of responses many of which were repeated in all three communities of Narrandera, Barellan and Grong Grong are provided at Appendix 4.

Key aspirations identified from consultations:

- enjoyment of good health and participate in active healthy lifestyles
- interaction with family and friends
- access to local health and support services
- ability to contribute
- feeling valued by local community
- participation and social inclusion
- easily accessible information on services and activities available within the community
- increased transport options and knowledge of options
- access to affordable and accessible accommodation e.g. residential village (self-care units)
- increased opportunities and variety of exercise for older people including exercise programs and heated pool
- safe and secure at home and in the community
- accessible and safe roads and footpaths
- accessible recreational facilities – walking tracks
- access to recreation, leisure and cultural activities
- need for community nursing on weekends (particularly for palliative care)
- increased social support services to address social isolation
- lifelong learning opportunities
- community education on Advanced Care Planning and Enduring Guardianship
- need for increased number of higher level aged care packages for our region

This is what our research told us

Beyond the needs expressed by community members and service providers, there are characteristics of communities which increase the success of the community in pursuing and delivering those needs. These characteristics also contribute to the overall liveability, social and cultural vibrancy of a community.

The strategy contains actions Council will take to partner with regional, state and other organisations, as well as training providers, to create a capacity building project to ensure that the whole community has the skills it needs to support its ageing members.

A healthy and active older population is an indication that a high capacity to lead, manage and advocate exists across the population.

The areas of learning that have been identified as essential in supporting the growth of a Positive Ageing environment in Narrandera Shire are areas such as, but not limited to:

- healthy eating programs and other healthy lifestyle programs
- organising legal documents e.g. Power of Attorney, Enduring Guardianship and Wills.
- using digital technology
- using mobility scooters safely
- using digital technology
- making the most of alternative energy
- identifying community projects
- planning projects
- accessing funding via grants or philanthropy
- grant acquittal
- attracting sponsorship
- attracting members and volunteers
- holding successful events
- better Boards training
- taking an organisation online – social media, blogging, on-line shop

The research undertaken into the feasibility of such a project indicates that the potential partners listed in the strategy will welcome such an initiative and actively support it.

The Strategy

The risk to the communities in Narrandera Shire is that as the community ages, the rest of the community finds itself not in a position to leverage government funding and technological advances such as the National Broadband Network to create the kind of community that is required to make getting older a positive experience.

Ultimately, a collective approach to ageing and older people will determine how we, our children and our grandchildren will experience life in later years.

Existing services that support positive ageing in Narrandera shire as of 2016

Many older people require support in the home or through other services in order to remain living at home. The Commonwealth Government has set up My Aged Care to make it easier for older people, their families, and carers to access aged care information, have their needs assessed, and be supported to access aged care services.

Contact can be made with My Aged Care via the My Aged Care website (www.myagedcare.gov.au) or the My Aged Care contact centre (1800 200 422).

Narrandera Shire Council receives recurrent funding under the Commonwealth Home Support Program (CHSP) to provide 5 service types. As part of aged care reforms, the Commonwealth Government plan to merge CHSP and Home Care packages to create an integrated at home package from 2018. Recurrent funding is unlikely to be available from this date for majority of services and this will impact Narrandera Shire Council.
